Dear Jane,

Please find below the details of an email sent to the then DSL. Unfortunately, I was unaware of this concern until yesterday, but thought it should be sent to you.

My trainee has just taught a lesson on Jihad to 8C. She looked at the rules of Jihad (holy war) and asked if the Manchester Arena bombing was Jihad. Pupils responded with the correct answer, except Axel who commented, 'It was a good battle though' I spoke to him at the end of the lesson and asked him what he meant by good and battle and from whose perspective. He said it was from the viewpoint of the suicide bomber and not his own. I wanted to report this to you as maybe it should be recorded somewhere or maybe, in reference to Prevent, you may want to speak to him further

Thanks
